

WHOLE COMMUNITY MOURNS JUDGE J.B. CRABTREE

D. H. S. KEEPS UP THE PACE; VICTOR AGAIN

Morrison Defeated in Great Game There Friday Night

By defeating the fast Morrison high school basketball team, 8 to 7, on their own floor last evening, in a game which Coach Bowers characterized as the best defensive game he has seen his charges put up since he came to Dixon, the Dixon high school basketball team went into a tie for second place in the Rock River High School Conference, with Rock Falls, Morrison and Mt. Morris. Mendota leads the conference, having won the three games it has played.

It was a great game in Morrison. Morrison has been touted to the skies. The Dixon boys went against that reputation as if it had never existed, and as a result one of the best games of the conference resulted.

Tied at the Quarter. At the end of the first quarter the score was tied, 4 to 4. Valiantly the boys of the two teams fought back and forth, but Dixon managed to gain an advantage of one point, and at the half the score was: Dixon, 6; Morrison, 5.

Not a score was made in the third quarter, eloquent evidence of the great defensive play put forward by both teams. And then came the final period, in which each team got two points. But the victory was Dixon's, and it meant much to the local boys.

The teams lined up: Dixon—Larkin, O'Malley and Wickey, forwards; Weinman, center; Kerz and Abbott, guards. Morrison—E. Rosted and Bellima, forwards; Morris, center; Wilson and Humphrey, guards.

Other Conference Games. Other games in the Rock River Conference last evening resulted as follows: Mt. Morris, 23; Sterling, 22. (Double overtime game). Mendota, 12; Rock Falls, 9. Rochelle, 32; Polo, 20.

American Preacher is Ousted from Roumania. Bucharest, Jan. 31.—(By The Associated Press)—The Roumanian authorities have authorized the Rev. Daniel Hurley, an American citizen to leave the country within 15 days. No charges are preferred against him. The order is based on a petition granted the authorities power to order foreigners considered undesirable to quit the country.

The law ostensibly was intended to counteract the spread of communist propaganda. Mr. Hurley was sent here from the United States about a year ago by the Southern Baptist Mission board as a teacher in the seminary organized in Bucharest by the American board. It is thought possible, the Orthodox church may have objected to his teachings as likely to create religious differences and thus the dominance of the Orthodox faith.

CHAPLIN'S BRIDE SEEKS FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT NOW

No Separation Contemplated, Attorneys Declare Today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—Attorneys are negotiating a financial settlement between Charles Spencer Chaplin, motion picture comedian, and his 15 year old bride he married in Mexico last November, says the Los Angeles Times today.

The fact that Mrs. Chaplin had joined members of her family in consulting attorneys became known, according to the Times, upon the arrival here a week ago of Edwin McMurray, San Francisco, attorney, and uncle of the bride.

McMurray is quoted by the Times as admitting financial negotiations "are in progress" though declaring "there is no connection between these negotiations and any contemplated action for separation or divorce."

George Bocho, who looked after the legal interests of Mrs. Chaplin's grand parents for years, is the other attorney who has represented the bride and her family in negotiations says the Times, adding that several conferences already have been held with Chaplin's attorneys.

What part if any, the anticipated arrival of an heir to the Chaplin fortune has played or will play in the negotiations, was not disclosed, nor was any hint divulged of the possible terms of the settlement.

FORBES, FOUND GUILTY, PLANS TO APPEAL CASE

Convicted of Conspiracy to Defraud Government By Jury Last Eve.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Chicago, Jan. 31.—Colonel Charles B. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans Bureau, and John W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government in contracts for soldiers' hospitals by a federal jury, which took twelve ballots and deliberated five hours here last night.

Their attorneys at once moved for a new trial and indicated the case would be carried, if necessary, to the United States Supreme court. Hearing on the new trial motion was set by Judge George A. Carpenter for February 4. Sentence was reserved pending disposal of the motion. The maximum penalty is two years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine or either.

The first nine ballots were nine to three for conviction, the next stood ten to two, and the end of ten weeks of testimony and argument came of the twelfth.

Payment of $5,000. The principal overt act charged by the prosecution to have been committed in this district was the alleged payment of $5,000 cash to Forbes by Elias H. Mortimer, chief prosecuting witness, in the Drake Hotel here June 29, 1922. Mortimer said he paid the money as Thompson's agent.

At that time, the government charged, there existed a conspiracy between Thompson, Forbes, Mortimer, James W. Black, deceased partner of Thompson, and Charles P. Cramer, deceased former general counsel of the Veterans Bureau, to fraudulently award veterans' hospital contracts to Thompson and Black interests. Forbes and Thompson went on trial November 24.

One Indictment Pending. Mortimer testified the general plan of the alleged conspiracy was agreed to at a meeting in Washington, June 15, 1922, and the detailed arrangements made in an official inspection trip of a party of bureau officials in June and July, 1922.

The indictment grew out of sensational charges of corruption, collusion and loose management in the Veterans' Bureau under Forbes in 1924 and 1925, related by Mortimer before a Senate investigating committee in 1923.

Forbes also was indicted in Baltimore on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government through the sale of surplus supplies of the Veterans' Bureau storehouse at Perry, Maryland. The indictment still is pending.

"FRAMING" OF MANY NEWSPAPERS IN LINCOLN MURDER CASE ADMITTED ON

STAND TODAY BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Tells How He First Suspected Lawyer; Says He Was Insane.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Geneva, Ill., Jan. 31.—The cement block murder case as a completed detective story was narrated from the beginning today by Chief of Police Frank Michels of Aurora in the trial of the lawyer-forist, Warren J. Lincoln. How he first hunted for the body of Lincoln, thinking he had been slain by his missing wife and her brother and how he eventually came to think that Lincoln had slain the two, upon whom he had contrived to throw suspicion, was recited by the chief in the fashion one tells a story to a group around a fireside. A breathless courtroom listened, molested by few interruptions on the part of lawyers.

The Chief, to whom it was that Lincoln eventually confessed that he had killed his wife and her brother Byron Shoup and encased their decapitated heads in a cement block, said that he first began to suspect Lincoln after he had vanished a second time from his flower farm on the old Indian trail in Aurora.

Thought Lincoln Insane. Once the question was put to the Chief "what he thought of Lincoln" and he replied that he thought him insane, had said so, as had many others when Lincoln was found in June 1923 at the Hotel Grace, Chicago, following a first disappearance a week before Lincoln dropped out of sight again and four months later the hunt was started for him as a murderer.

Chief Michels' belief that Lincoln is insane resulted in the state not calling him as a witness. The defense counts heavily upon his testimony. No word came from the wife and brother, the Chief said, at the time of Lincoln's first disappearance, though he had framed a setting to indicate that they had murdered him and newspapers all over the United States were told the police desired to question them. No word came from them after Lincoln reappeared and said that they as members of an international drug ring had kidnapped him. They had always been hard-working, self-respecting people, it did not seem that they would let go unchallenged, if they lived, the attacks on their character.

Typed Letters Were Clues. Suspects, the chief said, were confirmed when, in October 1923, Mt. Pulaski relatives came to him with letters which they said had been written apparently by their sister, Lina, the first word they had received in almost a year. These letters told that Mrs. Lincoln and her brother were living under assumed names; they asked for money; they were typewritten; the type and ribbon were the same as those of a machine Lincoln had. It was then ten months since Lincoln had been found. He was convinced Lincoln had murdered them.

DEATH ROBS LEE COUNTY AND VICINITY

Funeral to be Held on Monday Afternoon at 3 O'clock

The news of the sudden death of John B. Crabtree, Judge of the County Court of Lee County, which was published in late editions of the Telegraph yesterday, was a crushing blow to countless friends all over this part of Illinois. The swift death that struck down this splendid man at such an untimely age gave no warning and afforded no opportunity to combat it.

The funeral services for Judge Crabtree will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his mother, Mrs. Anna Crabtree, 322 Depot Avenue.

To Be Masonic Funeral

The funeral will be held from the home of Judge Crabtree's mother, Mrs. Anna Crabtree, on Depot Avenue. Rev. Father Story will officiate and Friendship Lodge will have charge of the Masonic services at Oakwood Cemetery.

The pallbearers will be: Dr. Z. W. Moss, Charles Leake, L. B. Hofer, Geo. E. Shaw, John L. Davies and B. Frank Downing.

Judge Crabtree, who had been suffering from a severe cold and a sinus infection during the winter months, punished himself by his faithful devotion to his duties. During this winter he has presided over the Ogles County Court, since the death of Judge Frank Reed of Oregon last fall, in addition to his work on the Lee County bench.

Due to his unselfish labors, death actually overtook Judge Crabtree at his work, for he heard two cases while on the bench in the Lee County court yesterday morning and his writing in the records and his expression and actions as he left the court room and proceeded to his office, showed that the stroke of apoplexy, from which he died about three and one-half hours later, had commenced to have its effect. Judge Wm. L. Leach of Amboy, who met Judge Crabtree in the corridor and spoke a few words with him, accompanying him to his office, was with him when he collapsed and the judge was removed to the hospital, where he died at 2:30 Friday afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Courageous, Able, Fearless

A courageous, able and fearless judge, eminently fair in his administration of justice as in private life, devoted to his wife and his widowed mother and the other members of his family, to whom his entire community expressed sympathy in their grief, John Crabtree's friends included everyone who knew him.

John Buel Crabtree, son of a famous judge in this judicial circuit, was 48 years, 6 months and 18 days old when he died. He was married May 27, 1914, to Edna Dobbie, of Salda, Colorado. All of his life has been spent in Dixon. He graduated from the law school of the University of Wisconsin in 1902 and took up the practice of law in Dixon. For many years he was associated with the Dixon Water Company as an officer and at the time of his death was serving his third term as county judge.

Judge Crabtree was a member of the Baptist Church, was a Royal Arch Mason and also had membership in the Dixon Lodge of Elks and the Odd Fellows. He was a Past Exalted Ruler of the Dixon Elks and had also served a number of years in the chairs of the Dixon Blue Lodge of Masons.

John Crabtree's integrity, his goodness and kindness, his unshakable honesty, his keen sense of humor and his high honor endorsed him wherever he was known. His death leaves a void that can never be filled in the memory of those who knew him and loved him.

Besides his wife and mother, Judge Crabtree is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John P. Dille of Evanston and Mrs. Wm. Boyce of Minneapolis, both of whom are here; and four brothers, Charles and Paul of Dixon, Edward of Chicago and Harry of Los Angeles, Calif. Another sister, Mrs. W. S. Block of Minneapolis, preceded him in death two years ago.

Weekly Grain Review

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 31.—Speculative buying stampeded in the Chicago wheat market this week, have involved total transactions, the largest on record, as well as lifted prices to a famine level. Compared with a week ago, wheat this morning showed advances ranging from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents a bushel, with the bulk of the gains up to 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents. It was on the day when wheat prices reached a maximum of $2.05 1/2 a bushel. May delivery, that according to the government supervisor, 31,827,000 bushels changed hands here in three hours and forty-five minutes. Next day, prices in Winnipeg collapsed ten cents a bushel, and the following day commission houses in Chicago took protective measures against untoward consequences likely to result from smaller traders being swamped by quick wild changes in value. To ensure relative safety all around so far as practicable, deposit of margins as much as 35 cents a bushel was required, whereas the usual deposit seldom exceeds five cents.
Bulk of the preceding big rushes to the ownership of wheat was a generally admitted world shortage of 70,000,000 bushels of bread grain as compared with last year. Furthermore, it was apparent that many countries which ordinarily export wheat, had become importers to a greater or lesser degree. Whether the needs resulting from the shortage could be tidied over until at least July 1 next, the advent of a new wheat harvest in the United States, was the issue on which traders divided.
Corn and oats shared in the flurried buying, purchasers taking the ground that the usual ratios of value had been disturbed as a result of the soaring of the price of wheat.
Piling up of stocks of lard weakened the provision market.

Butter Market

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 31.—Severe weather over a greater part of the country was a factor in bringing increases in butter prices and a firmer attitude to the market during the week. Although receipts at the four principal markets were about 3000 tons heavier than the previous week, stocks on dealers' floors were reduced slightly.

and there was a better consumptive demand.

MONUMENTAL DAYS.
Some days are sweet with laughter.

Some days are shadowed o'er with care.

Some days indifferently glide Upon life's ever moving tide.

And leave no tokens of their birth Or passing from this lovely earth.

Yet all that come with smiles or tears Make up the total of our years.

Some days will never pass away. We cherish still our wedding day.

And mark it as the happiest one Of all that since come and gone.

And there's that day of wondrous grace We purchased that first little place.

Which proudly we could call our own. How many years since then have flown!

Then there's the day our child was born.

We've kept the glory of that morn As bright and fresh along life's way.

As though it were but yesterday. And following that a time of grief.

Which tried but strengthened our belief.

How dearly cherished we have kept That day of days, when first we wept!

These mark our passing through the years—

Our monuments of smiles and tears—

The highest peaks to which we've been. With all the days which lie between.

And thus we see our lives are told By these few memories we hold.

And learn that splendors come to men Not day by day, but now and then.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.
Time Saver.

Heat the mixing bowl with scalding water before you cream your butter and sugar for a cake, and you can do it in half the usual time.

Grapefruit Knife.
A grapefruit knife is excellent for scooping out potatoes from the jacket when you wish to keep the jackets intact and put back the inside of the potato.

For Cake.
An excellent cake icing is made by mixing powdered sugar and butter with maple syrup instead of milk or water.

Better Pies.
A few teaspoons of apple jelly, made from tart apples, will improve the flavor of an apple pie that is made from ordinary winter apples.

To Stain Wood.
If you do not want painted furniture, but wish to finish it yourself, you can get an excellent effect by staining unfinished wood to resemble any other wood, then rubbing in wax to bring up the gloss.

Use Sandpaper.
Fine sandpaper is the best possible medium for removing burnt crusts from toast or cake.

Plans Made "Mother, Daughter" Banquet

Last evening a committee of the Men's club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Adams made plans for a "Mother and Daughter" banquet to be given by the club in place of their monthly meeting Feb. 1.

The plans for the menu were worked out and committees appointed to go ahead with the work and execution of the same. L. G. Adams is the chairman of the committee in charge.

Menus for a Family
Tested by SISTER MARY.

Breakfast.—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, creamed dried beef, toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon.—Boston baked beans, stewed tomatoes, whole wheat bread, grape juice pudding, rolled oats cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner.—Consomme with noodles, baked chicken, corn fritters, potato marbles, grapefruit salad, cheese sticks, vanilla ice cream, chocolate sauce, dinner rolls, milk, tea.

If the noodles are cut in very small strips they form a most inviting garnish to a cup of consomme.

The corn fritters, grapefruit, cheese sticks, chocolate sauce and rolls should not be served to children under school age.

Finely shredded lettuce with a mild French dressing should make their salad and whole wheat bread at least a day old should take the place of the rolls.

Boston Baked Beans.
Three cups navy beans, ½ pound fat salt pork, 1 dessertspoon salt, two dessertspoons molasses, 2 dessertspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon mustard, one cup boiling water, 1 small onion.

Wash and pick over beans. Let them stand over night in three quarts of cold water. If the beans are of this year's crop or night soaking is not necessary. Drain beans from being sufficient. Drain beans from being sufficient. Drain beans from being sufficient.

Drain the water away. Rinse beans in cold water. Peel onion and put, whole, in the bottom of the bean pot. Scald rind of pork and scrape well. Cut off enough thin slices to cover bottom of bean pot.

Cut through the rind of the remaining piece of pork in half-inch squares. Pour half the beans into bean pot, add piece of pork and cover with remaining beans. Mix salt, sugar and mustard in a small bowl. Add molasses and stir until well blended.

Add boiling water and when seasonings are dissolved pour over beans. Add enough boiling water to cover beans. Cover bean pot and bake in a slow oven for six hours. During the first four hours of baking add water as necessary. Then pull the pork to the top of the beans to brown. Let the liquor cook away about half.

Grape Juice Pudding.
Two cups grape juice, one third cup cornstarch, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, few grains salt, 2 teaspoons cold water.

If the grape juice was sweetened when bottled use less sugar. Dilute cornstarch with enough cold water to pour easily. Put juice and sugar over the fire and when boiling stir in cornstarch. Add butter and cook, stirring constantly until thick and transparent. Remove from the fire and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff and dry with salt and cold water. Turn into individual molds to set and chill. Serve with custard sauce made with the yolks of the eggs.

Corn Fritters.
One can corn, 1 and one-third cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ cup milk, 2 eggs.

Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder and add to corn. Add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Drop from spoon into deep fat hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in sixty seconds. Drain on brown paper and serve with syrup.

"Radio Tenor" Entertaining Audiences

William Hoke, the Radio Tenor, is in Dixon entertaining with ballads at the Dixon Theatre, appearing just before the feature picture. He comes from the Wisconsin theater in Milwaukee where he has a most successful appearance. Mr. Hoke broadcasts for about sixty radio stations and perhaps many Dixon radiofans have heard him. His singing last evening brought forth much praise; his voice is sweet and resonant of a rich timbre, and he sings with an assured yet modest poise which won him many friends and followers. He was under the handicap last evening of a cold. Mr. Hoke is a friend and protégé of Mrs. Parker of Amboy. Some of the stations sending forth his songs are KYW, WLS, Woorheart WJJD, between sixty and forty being included in the list. On Wednesday evening, Feb. 11, at 7 o'clock he will broadcast from Sears Roebuck station, and this is to be in the form of a dedicatory program with other artists. That same evening at 8:15 Mr. Hoke will sing from KYW. Any Dixon fan appreciating his work will send their applause—a card or letter.

The Fair Lillian Now in Limelight

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Jan. 31.—Intimations that Charles H. Duell was engaged to Lillian Gish, screen star, whom he has used to prevent from making motion pictures except under contract with him, were destroyed today in statements by attorneys.

"The wholly unwarranted presumption that Mr. Duell hoped to win the favor of Miss Gish's hand," said her attorney, "is some indication of the length to which the gentleman now is willing to go in order to coerce her into working for him. It would perhaps have been more fitting if he had sued her for breach of promise rather than having adopted an indirect means of forcing her to work for him."

In a statement on behalf of Mr. Duell, it was said he made the contract with Miss Gish because he regarded himself as engaged to her.

Much Interest in Music Memory Contest

Much interest is shown by the school children in Dixon in the Music Memory Contest, just as there is in many other towns and cities in the United States. Here the movement is being sponsored by the Grade Parent-Teacher association with the co-operation of the schools and Miss Bertha Bennett, Supervisor of Music in the schools.

Miss Bennett is starting a campaign to train the ear and memories of the young people. It's surprising with what eagerness they grasp the situation and enter with much enjoyment into the training for the contest. At some future date the Telegraph will print the names of some of the songs in the contest.

Orville Westgate, conductor and director of the Dixon Theatre orchestra will from time to time, play numbers of the songs and standard music to the schools and standard music to the schools.

Many youngsters attend the performance at the Dixon each evening and no doubt they will be greatly interested when they hear the music they are being drilled in by their teachers and Miss Bennett.

THEN THE AUTO HIT HIM.

We kid ourselves more than we realize. For instance, it's frequently claimed that Americans are "speed bugs," living at high nervous tension, rushing and hustling at break-neck pace.

We've been told this. Most of us believe it. Quite naturally. It gratifies our vanity to fancy ourselves important actors in an environment that demands hurry.

But suppose you are a city man in a real rush. Trying to get to the bank, say, before it closes. You have to dodge and shove through crowds that seem half-asleep and in process of petrification. The crowd moves slowly—lazy, ambling, poky. That's really the case. It doesn't just seem that way because you're in a hurry.

Speed bugs? Who laughed? Here's a man who works and walks leisurely on the sidewalk or in store, office, factory. He's the genuine typical American.

This man acquires an auto. As soon as he gets at the wheel, he feels the urge of the speed craze. Wants to get to his destination quickly.

Usually it's a great rush without cause. Many a business executive risks arrest by breaking speed laws on his way to the office. Arrived there, he calmly reads a paper or "goes into conference," where he often exchanges jokes and experiences and otherwise kills time.

Or he's driving into the country to buy fresh butter and eggs. To watch his auto, you'd think he was driving an ambulance.

At the heart of city traffic problems is this psychological truth: We have two distinct elements to deal with. First is the autoist, who wants speed. Second is the pedestrian, chronically slow-moving.

When these two factions cross each other's paths, we have the same problem as when a cow leisurely crosses the railroad track used by fast trains.

Traffic cops try to slow down the motorists and speed up the pedestrians. Instinctively they attempt to bring the two streams of traffic to about the same average speed.

It can't be done.

A typical American on wheels is a speeder at heart. A typical American walking wants to take his time.

Eventually the big cities probably will have streets with two levels. Pedestrians will have the regular streets. Autos will travel along elevated roadways or through subways. Some such definite separation of traffic will become necessary, at least at street intersections, if the number of autos continues increasing.

ILLINOIS RAILROAD WRECKED.

The Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis railroad was sold in parcels. It was offered as a whole, but there were no bidders. The master in chancery then offered it in eighteen parts. The railroad company owned 598 pieces of rolling stock.

No other railroad corporation would take the road and operate it. The concern goes out of business, notwithstanding numerous efforts of municipalities along the way to compel its continued operation.

Many people get the notion that because a railroad is a railroad it is rich and makes lots of money off the public. A railroad can be thrown into bankruptcy as certainly as a small business when costs of operation exceed revenues received. That condition may be brought about through poor management or by excessive burdens placed upon the industry by the public through agencies of government.

Bankruptcy of the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis railroad emphasizes the falsity of statements that have been spread throughout the country, that the Esch-Cummins law guaranteed to railroads 5 3/4 percent interest. Had there been such a guarantee the road could have been drawing on the government enough to maintain itself. Had there been such a guarantee, some other road would have been willing to take it over. The statement is a misrepresentation.

There was a guarantee for the first six months after the railroads were returned to private ownership. Then it terminated. It has not been effective for about four years.

The law did provide that the interstate commerce commission might set fix rates that if a railroad were operated economically and efficiently it would be allowed to earn 5 3/4 percent.

Hale Holden of the Burlington railroad, former director general, reported that the property investment of class 1 railroads, including materials and supplies and cash on hand, amounts to $21,725,165,404. At the rate of 5 3/4 percent the return would have been about $1,250,000,000. The income for 1923 was $961,955,465, or 4.43 percent. Returns for 1924 have not been compiled, but for the first nine months the percentage has been 4.21.

The best year the class 1 railroads have had since 1916 was 1923, when the net railway operating income was $78,000,000 less than in 1916.

STATE PARKS.

New York state, at the recent election voted $15,000,000 in bonds for the further development of its state park system. This is a subject to which the Illinois General Assembly should give thoughtful study and consideration. Illinois has many rare and most picturesque beauty spots within her confines which should come under control of the state before the purchase price of the same reaches prohibitive figures. These natural parks, which should be preserved for posterity, have all been pictured and described in numerous books and pamphlets devoted to the subject. There are several of them in northern Illinois.

MARRIED.

Two cannot live as cheaply as one. But marriage is a good investment. It furnishes the incentive that makes most people earn more and save more.

Analysis of incomes confirms this. Married men, between ages of 28 and 48, are found to have from 17 to 38 per cent more taxable wealth than bachelors of the same age. This is the average.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Clive Roberts Barton

Nancy and Nick and the Fairy Queen came to a place in the road where the new little black automobile would have to pass. Then they watched and waited. You never in the world would have guessed that it had been a line race horse not fifteen minutes before. But it had—and the Fairy Queen's wand had changed it. This is what it was saying to itself. "My, but this is nice! But I must not forget what I promised. I promised the Fairy Queen not to race. There's a chicken! I—oh, goodness, I almost stepped on it—I mean ran over it!" "There's some mud beside the road. It looks cool and soft. It feels so good on one's hoofs—I mean tires. I wonder if my master would mind if I ran over and got into it a little. I think I'll try. And the first thing you know that silly automobile said right off the road into a muddy ditch and stopped. "Huh! Now I can't move. I wonder what's happened!" said the automobile. "And the mud doesn't feel so good after all. Goodness! I'm getting up in the world. My master is pumping something under me and I'm going up and up and up. Huh! I wonder what that's for!" "Goodness! Chaining! Are they going to halter me? Oh, putting them on my hoofs—tires, I mean! How queer! They never did that when I was a horse. There! I'm moving! I'm out of the mud again. Goodness! I thought I would be fun but it wasn't."

The automobile kept on talking and talking to itself, although it all just sounded like chug—chug—chug—jiggle—jiggle! to anyone who was listening. "Now I'm on my way again. Oh! Honk! Honk! Do keep out of my way. Those chickens will drive me crazy. "Oh! That was a dog that time. I just missed him! I all but upset keeping out of his way, too! Nonsense, I call it. "There! I hear another car coming behind me. I never let a horse beat me and now I'm not going to let another car pass. No sir, I can go much faster. Just watch! Oh, dear! I promised that I wouldn't race. I forgot. But it's such fun to race. I wish I hadn't promised. "I don't think it will matter just once. Honest, I can't let that car pass. I've too much pride. "There! I'll just let myself out a little." The automobile stopped talking and got down to business. Faster and faster and faster it went. When it came to the turn in the road where the Fairy Queen and the Twins were waiting, crash! It hit a tree and off went a step and two wheels. The Fairy Queen waved her wand. There stood the black race horse again. "You're better as you were," said the Fairy Queen. "Silly wishes often bring us to grief." (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL

The sooner we can bring this French debt question from morals down to facts, the more hope there is of a sensible settlement. Senator Borah's moral showing, therefore, that the French ought to pay, following Deputy Martin's moral showing that they ought not to do so, may have neutralized both moralities out of the question, and so cleared the way for a practical show-down.

The French had to go through this with Germany. For six years they demonstrated morally that Germany ought to pay. The argument was perfectly good, and nobody denied it, but it produced nothing. The real question was not whether Germany OUGHT to pay, but what Germany COULD pay, and how. As soon as they asked the right question, the answer was simple.

It is the same with France and America. The sooner France comes down from the moral bluff, that she ought not to pay to the practical confession that she cannot pay, the better for her soul, as well as for the actual settlement of the question.

That raises a question of fact, capable of ascertainment. Then some modified Dawes plan can be agreed on, by which France will deliver to our collector in Paris whatever it is found she can afford to pay, and he will transfer to us whatever part of that we can afford to accept.

DON'T COUNT MONEY YET But cherish no illusion that we shall ever get all, or soon get any, of what is owed us. We will get what we can. That is all we can get. France will get something unwelcome, but salutary—the revelation that she is undertaking to play a role in Europe larger than she has the resources to sustain. So long as the question of the American debts can be evaded, so long the other situations can be concealed. The truth is unwelcome, but it is cheaper to find it out now than later.

ARE YOU A 200 PER CENTER? It is argued that because we made a separate peace with Germany, we should also make separate arrangements for payments. We did. We arranged, separately, to share all the rights, and to be exempt separately from all the responsibilities of the Treaty of Versailles.

Now we have got this recognized by the other powers, too. They agree that we shall have our share of the Dawes payments, and we do not agree to have any share in collecting them. What more could we do separately? If Germany defaulted on us separately, we should have to enforce collection separately—which is exactly what the objectors insist we shall not do at all, separately or jointly. As it is, our fellow-citizens assume all the responsibilities of collection, while we share only in its benefits.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY If thou hast nothing to pay, why should he take away thy bed from under thee?—Prov. 22:27.

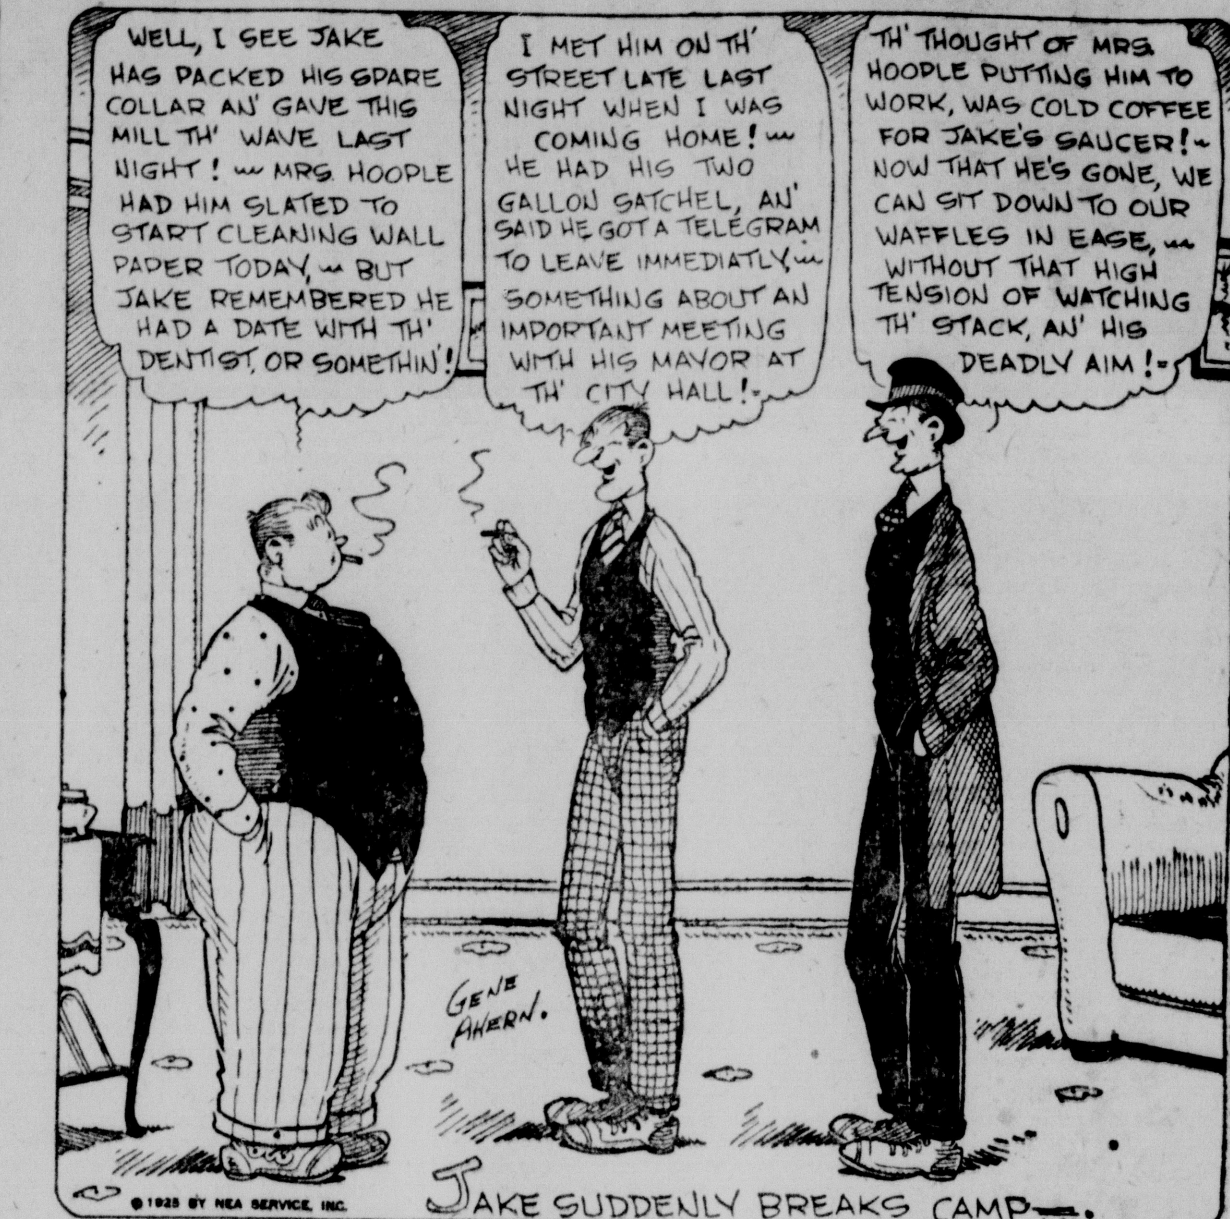

Debt is the secret foe of thrift, as vice and idleness are its open enemies.—Adagey.

Sales of artificial gas in the United States last year totaled 405,344,000 cubic feet, an increase of about 20 billion cubic feet over 1923.

THE Pelican's a funny bird;
As queer as you will meet.
He lives down by the water where
There's a lot of fish to eat.
He'll fly above the rolling waves;
Then quickly he will dip
And catch a fish within his beak
That's big just like a grip.

NEW DIMMER LAW FOR ILL. CARS LIKELY

Present Law Called Inefficient By Chairman Cutler.

Springfield—By The Associated Press—Illinois will have a new automobile headlight dimmer law if a proposal by Reed E. Cutler, Lewistown, chairman of the house steering committee in the 54th general assembly becomes a law.

Cutler has not decided whether he or someone else will introduce the proposed bill.

One feature which is being seriously considered is a law requiring all automobiles to have a device whereby the headlights may be tipped downward in order not to blind an approaching motorist.

"The present dimming law has proved inefficient," Cutler asserted, "because of the fact that when a motorist dims his lights he is unable to see clearly the road immediately in front of him and thus might crash into any pedestrian or slow-moving vehicle without lights. Several accidents have recently been attributed to this fact, which constitutes one of the principal menaces of night driving."

Another law which Cutler has in mind is one requiring horse-drawn carriages and wagons and other slow-moving vehicles to carry a tall light as a warning to automobiles and trucks approaching from the rear.

Many drivers of such conveyances carry such lights now, he said, as a matter of self protection, but he believes it should be made compulsory.

Cutler also indicated his intention of supporting a proposed bill which would make all state hard roads "through" highways and require all vehicles approaching them from by-roads to stop before crossing them just as in the case with through boulevards and streets in cities.

Why We Picked The Red Top Fence Post

DURING the course of a year we sell a good many steel fence posts, all of them backed up with our personal guarantee.

Naturally the first thing we did before we picked a line of posts was to find a make good enough to stand the gaff in the fence line—a brand that we could stand behind.

The Red Top was our choice. We firmly believe that it is the most fence post service for the money. The studded Red Top is reinforced and extra strong. Its big, heavy anchor plate is put on in such a way that no holes have to be punched in the post first. A post has got to be strong at the anchor plate—the Red Top is.

You'll like the aluminum finish when you see these posts in our stock and you'll appreciate it all the more when you put Red Tops in your fence line. Aluminumized Red Tops make fences that you don't have to apologize for. The aluminum metallic finish also protects the post, thus adding to its life.

The Red Top One-Man Driver and Handy Fasteners speed up fence building. They help you do a week's fencing job in a day. The Handy Fastener has a long leg that goes all the way around the stem of the post. It will not loosen up and let go of the wire.

All in all you'll find the Red Top the most satisfactory post you've ever used. Come in and see it. See the One-Man Driver. Prevailing prices are mighty reasonable. We recommend early buying.

NURMI FAILED TO MAKE NEW MARK LAST EVE

His "Flying Feet" Had Apparently Lost Some Activity.

New York, Jan. 31.—(By the Associated Press)—Paavo Nurmi of Finland, established a record of different but when he failed to break any existing marks in a one and one-eighth mile race at the Morningside A. C. games last night, his performance being no more than mediocre.

For the first time since the "flying feet" appeared upon these shores there was an appreciable let down in their activity and Jole Ray would have run away from him easily. Paavo started slowly and made no haste, evidently being content with having appeared at the games and finishing the race in front.

Reports during the meet declared that Nurmi was suffering from an injured leg sustained while swimming in a pool and that he also was nursing a cold, both of which difficulties would keep him out of the competition. But his Finnish friends prevailed upon him to start because the Morningside club had the entry.

While Plant and Willie Rito, however, were in exceptional form, the walker who defeated Ugo Frigerio of Italy beating his own record for 1 1/2 miles made in 1920 by two seconds; and Rito, running a remarkable two mile race in which he caught the handicap men and lapped the field at the finish line. He missed the record by a couple of seconds.

Frigerio, Olympic champion walker was not entered but had verbally agreed to participate, according to officials. While the meet was in progress, he is believed to have been on his way to Boston. Nurmi and other stars will run in the Boston A. A. games tonight.

DAIRY PRODUCTS ABOUND IN UNITS RICH FOOD VALUE

Prof. N. E. Olson Tells of Worth in Address
Via the Radio.

"The Food Value of Dairy Products" a radio address recently delivered by Prof. N. E. Olson of Kansas, is reproduced by the Telegraph at the request of several dairymen.

Milk and the products made from milk are among the oldest classes of food in the human diet. Milk, butter, and cheese are mentioned in ancient writings as far back as 2000 B. C. They are mentioned several places in the Bible even so far back as the Book of Genesis, 18th Chapter, 8th verse: "And he (Abraham) took butter and milk and the calf which he had dressed and set it before them." Again in Proverbs 30:33 Solomon says "Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter." The cow has long been the object of veneration among many races and nations and she has fairly been called "the foster mother of the human race."

It is a noteworthy fact that those peoples which have made the most liberal use of milk and milk products in their diet are among the hardiest and longest-lived peoples on the face of the earth. Metchnikoff, the great scientist and author of the volume entitled "The Prolongation of Life," credited the long life of the Balkan nationalities to their very liberal use of milk.

Food Essentials in Human Nutrition
Let us just spend a few moments in a discussion of the food essentials in human nutrition and see how well milk meets the requirements. Without these food essentials children cannot grow to be healthy men and women.

Proteins
First the body requires proteins. Proteins are represented in the human diet by such foods as lean meat, eggs, and legumes. Milk contains 3.5

per cent protein. Casein or curd is the principal milk protein. The proteins furnish the material for building muscle and other tissues. Without it growth cannot take place. Proteins from various sources are not all of equal value in building body tissue. Milk protein is a phosphoprotein, the most efficient class of protein for tissue building.

Fats and Sugar
Next the body needs fats and sugar for body fuel, that is, to be burned in the body, thus supplying heat and energy. There is no fat superior to butterfat. It is particularly easy to digest. Milk averages 3.9 per cent butterfat. Cream varies from 16 to 40 per cent in fat and butter averages 82 per cent fat. Milk furnishes sugar in the form of lactose, a sugar found no place else in nature. It is especially valuable since unlike other sugars it finds its way to the large intestines before being entirely digested where it exercises a beneficial effect in preventing putrefaction, an important cause of sickness both in children and adults. There is an average of 4.75% milk sugar in milk.

Mineral Matter
The third class of food material is minerals. They are necessary for skeleton building and other tissue. Milk is rich in calcium phosphate, the principal mineral matter in bones. Dr. Sherman of Columbia University thus states the need of lime:

"Calcium is present in the body in greater relative abundance than other mineral. Milk contains slightly more calcium, volume for volume, than does lime water. As a rule, the calcium content of the diet depends mainly upon the amount of milk consumed. In family diets where ordinary quantities of milk are used the milk is apt to furnish about two-thirds of the total lime in the diet. Without milk, it is doubtful if the diet will be as rich in calcium as is desirable either for the child or for the adult."

Vitamins
The last general class of food essentials are vitamins. Without vitamins growth cannot take place. If insufficient in quantity, ill health or death results. We do not know what vitamins are, but we do know the part they play in diet. There are three principal vitamins which, for want of a better name, are called A, B, and C. In the order of their discovery, milk contains all of them.

Vitamin A is associated with the fat in certain foods. Butterfat is particularly rich in this vitamin. It is also found in the fats of the glandular organs, such as the liver. Muscle fats contain very little, while vegetable fats such as cotton seed, coconut, and peanut oils contain none. It is readily seen that there is no substitute for butterfat in the diet. Vitamin B is more widely distributed and is plentiful in milk. It is found in many fresh unrefined foods, such as whole wheat bread and fresh vegetables. Vitamin B is removed with the bran in making white flour and polished rice.

Vitamin C is less widely distributed and more unstable than the other vitamins. Fresh oranges and tomatoes are the most abundant sources of this vitamin. Milk contains it when the cows are on pasture but since it is uncertain physicians recommend that children be given orange or tomato juice regularly.

Milk Compared to Other Foods
While milk is considered a liquid food containing as it does about 87 per cent of water, the balance or 13 per cent is solids. Milk contains more solids than beets, carrots, squash, turnips, and many other so-called solid foods.

In protein one quart of milk is equivalent to seven ounces of sirloin steak, six ounces of round steak, 4.5 eggs, or 8.6 ounces of chicken. In energy value one quart of milk is equivalent to 1.3 ounces of sirloin steak, 1.9 ounces of round steak, 9 eggs or 14.5 ounces of chicken.

From these figures it is seen that milk is one of our cheapest foods as well as our most complete food. Farm families could well afford to make a more liberal use of milk, thus saving much of the money spent in town for meat and the diet would be improved.

Milk Products
Thus far we have not discussed fluid milk. Now let us consider the products which are made from milk. Condensed milk and dried milk when mixed with water in the proper proportions are equal in food value to fresh milk though not as palatable. Buttermilk and skim milk are very high in food value, the only ingredient which has been removed being the butterfat. They have essentially the same composition. They are healthy, stimulating beverages and a cheap source of the valuable milk protein, sugar, and lime.

Butter is concentrated milk fat and as such is very rich in vitamin A. There is no more delicious food than good butter.

There are a great many varieties of cheese. Almost every white nation has its favorite cheese. The common varieties in America are cottage cheese, Cheddar or American cheese, Swiss, Brick, and Limburger. Being made from milk all are very high in food value and rich in vitamins. The United States consumes less cheese than any other white nation. The diet would be improved by its more liberal use. It is a worthy substitute for meat.

Ice cream has been called the "Rose of the Dairy Industry" and the "American Dessert." But it is more than a dessert. It is unquestionably the most nearly perfect food available, containing as it does all the ingredients of milk in concentrated form. That the consumer is recognizing the food value of ice cream is evidenced by the enormous annual increase in the sales of ice cream.

There is no more delicious dessert than ice cream and from a dietary standpoint it is far superior to pastries. The slogan "Eat a plate of ice cream every day" is good advice and worth heeding in the winter as well as in summer.

Conclusions
In conclusion I wish to quote from Dr. E. V. McCullum of Johns Hopkins University, the discoverer of vitamin A and probably the greatest nutritional expert in the world and a champion of the dairy industry.

Dr. McCullum says: "Milk is our protective food and its use must be increased. The liberal use of milk has made us what we are. No family has the right to purchase any meat until each member has at least a pint of milk daily and this I regard as below the optimum. Milk is just as necessary for the maintenance of health in the adult as in the young. I have been convinced that we should adhere throughout life to such diets as will induce normal growth in a child of three to five years. If we would maintain the highest state of physical well-being of which we are capable, let me repeat that any reduction in our consumption of milk and its products will be reflected in a lowering of our standards of public health and efficiency."

Since weather observations have been taken in Alaska, the highest and lowest temperatures recorded were 100 degrees above zero at Fort Yukon and 76 below at Tanana.

CAN'T SOAR UP

Brussels—Birds cannot fly to a higher altitude without moving their wings. Maurice Boile, Belgian army expert, says after a study of South American birds. Some students of bird flight had asserted this was possible. The condor holds his wings rigid and flies along at a gradual decreasing altitude by working his tail feathers with a movement similar to that of a sculling oar, but he cannot gain altitude in this manner, Boile says.

Poor patients now are being given free radium treatments in the London Radium Institute.
